

Professional development

Ralph Mastromonaco considers the practice of law to be a collegial profession and believes that lawyers have a duty to help one another to become better lawyers, to improve the quality of the legal services they render to their clients.

In this vein Me Mastromonaco has given professional development courses that have been well received by the legal community having participated as a speaker in the following continuing education courses:

November 19, 2016

“Reflections on the legal profession - ethical issues in private practice” Association of Italian Canadian Jurists of Québec;

June 16, 2017

“The How and Why of the Jordan Motion” Association of Italian Canadian Jurists of Québec;

May 29, 2021

“The Fundamentals of a Successful Law Practice” Association of Italian Canadian Jurists of Québec;

March 18, 2023

“Conference on Systematic Racism and Racial Profiling” Organizing member of Conference and Panel moderator; Association of Italian Canadian Jurists of Québec.

---

Ralph Mastromonaco will continue to provide professional development courses to members of the legal profession and will update this information on this website

www.mastromonaco.ca